

ABSTRACT

Embodiments of a system and method of classifying remote users according to link quality, and scheduling wireless transmission of information to the users based upon the classifications are generally disclosed.